About the data

The data was sourced from census records using primary (first) majors. The terms from fall 2014 to fall 2018 are available to select as the current term of analysis while the prior terms, which will show previous enrollment, have data from fall 2006.

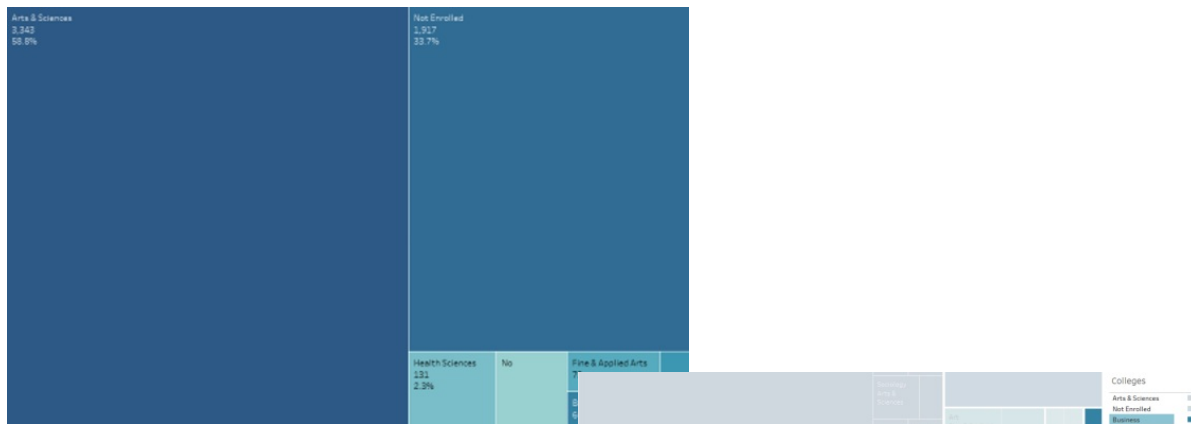

How it is displayed

Each element of this dashboard displays the data in two ways. The tree map visualizes the enrollment of students in the selected current term counted by their enrollment in the selected prior term. The data is also shown in a tabular form below each tree map.

Clicking on an area in the tree map, table or on the colleges in the legend will highlight the related data as selected by the filters. Press the Esc key on your keyboard to clear the highlight.

Each dashboard begins with fall 2018 as the current term and a prior term of fall 2017 for the College of Arts & Sciences. The By College tab will show the number of students enrolled in that college in fall 2018, counted by their prior enrollment for fall 2017 in any college. The filters on the right will alter any of these selections. The By Department or By Majors tabs will do the same, with further filters available for those variables.

Keep in mind that the filters will interact, so some combinations will not show results. For example, choosing to show a Class Type of 'New Freshman' but also choosing a Class of 'Senior' will not show results as students cannot be in both categories.
